CEO's Saying: "Why we work"

“ I believe that everyone has their own reasons for working as a member of society.

Many people cite "reasons for working" as making a living, gaining experience, acquiring knowledge, earning money, etc. In other words, they decide to work in order to "gain" something. However, we do not work with the goal of gaining something for ourselves.

We work in order to give something of value to society. Working with the goal of "giving" rather than "gaining " means working not for oneself, but for others (customers/society).

This is because we are convinced that those who can provide value to society through their customers are the professionals. ”

Yasunari Kuno, CPA
(Certified Public Accountant)
CEO/Chairman, Tokyo Consulting Group
